This privacy statement describes our current policies and practices with regard to Personal Data collected by us from you directly and/or through the Web Site. The term "Personal Data" refers to personally identifiable information about you, such as your name, birthday, e-mail address or mailing address and telephone number

Notification of Changes to this Policy

We are continually improving our methods of communication and adding new functionality and features to this Web Site. Because of these ongoing changes, changes in the law and the changing nature of technology, our data practices will change from time to time. If and when our data practices change, we will (as soon as practicable) post the changes on this Web Site to notify you of the changes. We encourage you to check this page frequently.

Information we may collect

We may collect and process the following Personal Data about you:

- i. information you provide to us for the purpose of registering with us, including your name, e-mail address, address, profession and workplace;
- ii. information relating to transactions carried out between you and us on or in relation to this Website, including information relating to any purchases you make of our goods or services;
- iii. information about your computer and about your visits to and use of our Website, including your IP address, browser type, geographical location, length of visit and number of page views.

Cookies

A cookie is a small file that a website transfers to your computer to allow it to remember specific information about your session while you are connected. Your computer will only share the information in the cookie with the website that provided it, and no other website can request it. Cookies by themselves cannot be used to discover the identity of the user. Cookies do not damage your computer.

We may use both session cookies and persistent cookies on the Website. The session cookies will be used to keep track of you whilst you navigate the Website. The persistent cookies will be used to enable our Website to recognise you when you visit the Website. The session cookies will be deleted from your computer when you close your browser. The persistent cookies will remain stored on your computer until deleted, or until they reach a specified expiry date.

You have the opportunity to set your browser to accept all cookies, to notify you when a cookie is issued, or not to receive cookies at any time.

Anonymous Data Collected through this Web Site

We collect anonymous information about the use of our Web Site. For example, we use technology to track which pages of our Web Site our visitors view and to compile statistics about our visitors and their use of our Web Site.

We use technology to track how often hyperlinks are used and which pages on our Web Site our visitors choose to view.

We also use your IP address to help diagnose problems with our server and to administer our Web Site. An IP address is a numeric code that identifies your computer on a network, or in this case, the Internet. Your IP address is also used to gather broad demographic information, such as determining how many of our visitors are from outside the UK.

Use of your personal information

Personal information submitted on our Website will be kept confidential and will only be used for the purposes specified in this privacy policy or in relevant parts of the Website.
